Fertile, young minds refined by a devoted staff. Ambitious talmidim enabled to reach their true potential. Enter Nachlas Avos, a Jewish education for our children in Budapest.

Since its inception in year 2002, the HFPJC has merited to restore 150 cemeteries and approximately 35,000 matzeivos. The incredible rescue work being accomplished regarding the abandoned Jewish cemeteries dotting the Eastern European region is, without exaggeration, the result of a few individuals' utter dedication and sacrifice. HFPJC's devoted representatives, members of the Budapest Jewish community, literally contribute every free moment of their days to saving, restoring, and preserving these final resting places of our ancestors.

Until recently, this famous city has not owned any accommodations to teach Torah to the handful of chareidi children. These chareidi parents were naturally anxious to grant their children a true yiddishe upbringing. Although the HFPJC with its tremendous budget and rising costs is struggling, itself, to keep afloat financially, the urgent need for Talmud Torah's, compelled us to take on this new cause, especially considering that the matzev of the chinuch of these children was a distressing concern for the Budapest parents. However the exorbitant budget of the is impossible to shoulder singlehandedly and as such, the Talmud Torah is completely dependent on the generosity of klal yisroel to be able to open its doors to the young chareidi boys thirsting for a Torah education. With most of these boys' parents engaging in rescuing the gravesites of our ancestors, can we consciously ignore their plea for assistance?

In desperation to bridge the financial gap, the HFPJC hosted an elegant affair in the home of Mrs. Korn, mother-in-law of the renowned Rabbi Mordche Berdowitz. The following selected philanthropists, who were previously heavily involved with HFPJC regarding their ancestral cemeteries were invited to assist in this noble cause by sponsoring a month of the cheder's expenses: Rabbi Joseph Perl, R' Avraham and son R' Chaim Kaufman, R' Zev Nussen, R' Nathan Herzog on behalf of the Herzog Brothers, R' Shia Beirech and son Zvi Weiner, R' Chaim Zvi Schon, R' Hershy Schoenberger, R' Yitzchok Z. Weinstock, R' Yosef and R' Lazer Ausch, R' Yaakov Hirsch, R' Feivel Hoffman, R' Shaul N. Friedman, R' Mordche Friedman, and acquaintances of Rabbi Mordche Berkowitz – R' Meir Weiss and R' Shmuel Stern.

At this inspiring event, Rabbi Oelbaum delivered a stirring keynote address, in which he expressed his trust in and awe of the Nachlas Avos institution. In addition, Rabbi Schwartz expressed his heartfelt praise towards HFPJC, having personally restored his ancestral cemeteries through Avoyseinu. His generous contribution towards a month of Nachlas Avos expenses galvanized the other attendees to participate. What also added much to the warm atmosphere were the heartfelt words of Rabbi Yosef Hersh Perl and R' Shaul N. Friedman.

With much siyatta dishmaya, eight months of the Talmud Torah's learning year were covered. The devoted askanim – R' Mordche Gold, R' Zev Walter and R' Wolf Landau are arranging the remaining months among others who wish to garner the tremendous intertwined mitzvah of limud haTorah and hatzolas meisei mitzvah, by purchasing a month's worth of zechusim and kiddush Hashem promoted through the Talmud Torah Nachlas Avos.
